

UNIVERSAL PROPERTIES OF NATURAL LANGUAGE AND GEORGIAN AS A CASE STUDY

Friday 15 November, 2:00pm to 6:40pm

Old FDR, St. Antony's College, University of Oxford

Programme

14:00–14:10 Welcome and Introduction:

Zbigniew Wojnowski, Head of the Georgian Studies Programme at OSGA, University of Oxford

Panel 1

14:10–14:40 Hedde Zeijlstra (Georg-August University of Göttingen)
The configurational matrix 2.0

14:40–15:10 Daniel Harbour (Queen Mary University of London)
Georgian agreement competition: Just a matter of allomorphy and adjacency?

15:10–15:40 Svetlana Berikashvili (Ilia State University of Tbilisi/University of Oxford)
Pro-drop in Georgian

15:40–16:10 Q&A

16:10–16:40 Coffee Break

Panel 2

16:40 – 17:10 Charlotte Hemmings (University of Oxford)
Split ergativity in Enggano

17:10 – 17:40 Irina Lobzhanidze (Ilia State University of Tbilisi)
Development of a Georgian NLP treebank with a UDPipe model

17:40 – 18:10 Stavros Skopeteas (Georg-August University of Göttingen)
Reflexes of clausal domain in prosody: Georgian and the typology of V-final languages

18:10 – 18:40 Q&A

Chaired by Nicholas Kontovas (University of Oxford)

Convened by Svetlana Berikashvili (Ilia State University of Tbilisi/University of Oxford)

